

Why Retirement Plans Matter More Than Ever

During the peak years of the COVID-19 pandemic, retirement plan growth went flat as businesses struggled to keep their doors open. That trend is now slowly reversing in the post-COVID economy. According to the Road to Retirement: A Paychex Special Report¹, retirement plan adoption by small businesses are showing a steady increase nationally. Employee participation has had the strongest gain in more than two years, suggesting that his benefit is increasingly important to workers.

Despite all these positive signs, there is still a retirement savings crisis. Less than half of U.S. employers offer a retirement plan, and only about 40% of employees participate.

Legislative Changes

New Bill May Expand Tax Credits for Microbusinesses

A bill is now in Congress that proposes to increase retirement tax credits for businesses with fewer than 10 employees. The Retirement Investment in Small Employers (RISE) Act, or H.R. 6007, aims to assist microbusinesses with 1-9 employees. If the bill becomes law, it would increase the tax credit up to $2,500, up from $500, each year for three years once the plan is established, plus an additional $500 per year if auto-enrollment is implemented. In total, micro-businesses could gain up to $9,000 in tax credits.
